

REIMAGINING VOLUNTEERING– December 2020 update

The Reimagining Volunteering Reference Group met at Red Cross House in late November. The group is made up of amazing volunteers and staff with expertise in DWST, fundraising, Branch Presidents, Area Council Chairs, and a former delegate, with perspectives from Migrant, Pasifika, Youth and Māori. The group discussed their own volunteer journeys, vision for reimagining volunteering and where there are the stumbling blocks and gaps in the volunteer or member experience. Over the two days, a deep connection between the group grew which is a great foundation for the work we will be involved with over the next year. The working group is currently working through the outcomes of the meeting and will be sharing those in the new year. We look forward to speaking with lots of Red Cross people in 2021 about your vision for reimagining volunteering at New Zealand Red Cross.
